Appetite, Anyone?

Readers who have never planned a party or dinner or similar event, without something "going wrong," can at least take consolation in what happened at a recent consumer group's lunch in a large Northern city.

As guests sat at the table they were greeted by voluminous information, including all the gruesome details, which severely questioned the wholesomeness and purity of the typical frankfurter which comes off the production lines of U.S. meat packing houses.

After the guests had plenty of time to peruse this material, the dinner arrived. It consisted of franks and beans.—Jacksonville (Fla.) Florida Times-Union

A No-Smoking Subsidy?

The surgeon general of the United States, Jesse L. Steinfield, is trying his best to get the government to step up the pressure on cigarette smokers. His current suggestion is to tax cigarettes themselves on the basis of their tar and nicotine content. There is room for skepticism on this matter of controlling things by making them too expensive. People keep paying horrendous prices for booze.

Perhaps Dr. Steinfield ought to go try some of the plans used by other government agencies. If the government can pay people not to grow hogs and corn, why not try paying cigarette smokers not to light up? This might, of course, give rise to a new federal bureaucracy, but somebody'll have to keep up with the paperwork as smokers, like cotton-growers, register their acreage. . . . er, daily habit and are issued their no-smoking subsidy allotments.—Anniston (Ala.) The Real Story

Forget Howard Hughes. By now so much has been written about the billionaire recluse that the public curiosity is nearly sated.

But if someone really wants to make a lot of money with a book, he might try doing the life of Clifford Irving. We wonder if McGraw-Hill would be interested?

IRS Insists Filing Out Tax Form Simple

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Although the Internal Revenue Service insists that income tax preparation is not beyond the abilities of most Americans, an enormous industry has developed that says otherwise.

Tax preparers are proliferating, and some of them are highly profitable. One, H & R Block earned nearly $9 million last year. And local preparers find it a profitable seasonal business.

Last year more than 40 million of the 75 million returns involved payments to tax preparers. At only $10 a return, which is probably well below the average, this means $400 million.

Tax preparers need demonstrate no qualifications, either of experience or integrity.

As one company states in a letter seeking trainees: "You don't have to be a college graduate or even a high school graduate. No license is required and you don't need fi-

AND AWAY THEY GO! A lively crew modeled on notable comic strip characters of the period takes off on a replica of a sightseeing bus circa 1911, one of the featured items in the 29th annual National Antiques Show at New York's Madison Square Garden. More of the same includes, below, a Germany tin taxi from 1910 and a French-produced painted tin depot wagon from 1899.

Washington Jonquil Festival

Sunday, March 12 will mark the beginning of the week long Fourth Washington, Arkansas Annual Jonquil Festival.

If you have an interest in history and a love of beautiful flowers, a visit to Washington, Arkansas Sunday, March 12 through Sunday, March 19 will be a worthwhile and pleasant excursion.

The eight day long Jonquil Festival will be crowded with exciting and colorful events for the visitor.

A weaving demonstration will be given on an authentic antique loom by Mrs. Corinne S. Barr of Newport, Arkansas.

Bowie Knives will be made during the Festival by famed Knife Maker W. P. Bagwell at the James Black Blacksmith Shop where the original Bowie Knife was fashioned.

A special display of pioneer lye soap, made at Washington, Arkansas in the old world manner, will be on display in the museum.

Historic and beautiful Washington, Arkansas has long been noted for its display of Jonquils and Daffodils in the springtime. The original bulbs were brought to Washington by early settlers well over 100 years ago. The beauty of these blooming bulbs will be at its peak during the Festival.

The Old Tavern, a 1960 reconstruction, will also be a feature of the Jonquil Trail. The Tavern contains many period pieces reflecting its crowded history. Here Sam Houston plotted the liberation of Texas; here James Bowie and Davey Crockett rested on their way to the Alamo; here Federal troops stopped enroute to Mexico; and here Albert Pike did much of his writings. Visitors to Washington, Arkansas rarely miss this popular shrine.

An added treat is in store for Jonquil Festival visitors. Guests at the Tavern before the Texas Revolution in 1836 gathered around the fireplace as they surmised what Sam Houston had in mind as he received, in his upstairs room, various types of visitors at all hours both day and night.

During the Festival Week a roaring fire will once again fill the fireplace in the kitchen of the Old Tavern in Pioneer Washington, Arkansas. The ladies from Washington will present a quilting demonstration using an authentic antique quilting rack. Guests, for a $1.00 donation to the Restoration Foundation, will be invited to write their names on the quilt and at a later date their names will be embroidered on this commemorative quilt. The quilt will then be placed on permanent display in the Tavern. Each person touring the Tavern will also be served a steaming cup of coffee.

Washington, Arkansas is located on Interstate 30 and Highway 4 just seven short miles from Hope, Arkansas. Take the Hope exit on Interstate 30 at State Highway 4.

All roads leading to Washington, Arkansas are good highways, following in some areas the old trails of the Territorial era. Along the drive one can enjoy the glory and beauty of spring as it spreads across the hillsides.

Methadone Not Used in Drug Program

By DALA MCKINSEY
Associated Press Writer

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Building 63 at Fort Roots Veterans Hospital looks like all the other rows and rows of red brick buildings at the sprawling hospital complex—but its function is quite different.

The building was used to house only those on the program for acute alcoholism, but now it is being given a fresh coat of paint, new furniture and an entirely different countenance.

One section of the building has been converted to a drug program announced last summer for more than 30 VA hospitals across the nation.

On the walls are pop-art posters, including a patient's own interpretation of an LSD trip. The unit can handle up to 15 men on the program.

The program was begun after the federal government decided that something must be done about the problem created by the easy accessibility of drugs in Southeast Asia.

When originally announced, there was a great deal of ballyhoo about beginning a methadone maintenance program at the hospital. However, officials have decided not to implement the program.

Dr. Henry L. Lambert, chief of staff at the hospital, said the methadone system is mainly used to withdraw heroin addicts.

"We elected not to go the Methadone maintenance route, because we didn't feel that heroin was a major problem in the Little Rock and North Little Rock area," Lambert said.

Lambert and Dr. Harvel Harrison, chief of psychiatry, feel that their hospital does not draw the hardened narcotics addicts such as in metropolitan areas like New York, Chicago, or San Francisco.

Lambert said the majority of their patients began experimenting with drugs in Vietnam, where the drugs are 90 to 95 per cent pure and very easy and cheap to get.

He said many soldiers become involved with drugs out of curiosity or boredom.

Harrison said a lot of returning Vietnam War Veterans used drugs before going into the service. He said others turn to drugs because of the "stresses of Vietnam."

Lambert said the trend is to use drugs in the Vietnam War.

"In the first war where alcohol was used, soldiers liberated win cellars' different moods," he said.

Both men see using methadone maintenance as somewhat of a last-ditch effort to save a drug addict.

Since methadone is a man-made drug producing euphoria similar to that of heroin, it is simply replacing one drug with another, they explained.

Like in the song Elinore Rigby: "No one was saved."

Under the methadone program, the process is a daily one. The drug addict must come to the hospital to get his daily dosage administered by

Kliendienst's Honor American Feature Begins Here This Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — With most of the witnesses yet to be heard in a Senate Judiciary Committee investigation, final action on Richard G. Kleindienst's nomination to be attorney general faces an indefinite delay.

One key witness, Mrs. Dita D. Beard, Washington lobbyist for the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., has dropped out of sight. More than a score of FBI agents are reportedly searching for her, concentrating on the Denver area.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said the hearings into charges linking settlement of antitrust suits against ITT to a financial commitment to the Republican National Convention in San Diego should not be closed until the committee gets Mrs. Beard's testimony.

Committee chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., also has indicated that he does not believe the hearings can be concluded without exhausting every effort to find the woman lobbyist.

Eastland already has issued two subpoenas for her and it was at his request that FBI agents were assigned to look for her.

Committee sources said Mrs. Beard had telephoned a Washington doctor from Denver seeking a prescription for heart trouble.

A confidential memorandum attributed to Mrs. Beard linked an out-of-court settlement of the antitrust cases to a pledge by the Sheraton Hotel subsidiary of ITT to help San Diego meet the costs of the GOP convention.

The memorandum, published by Columnist Jack Anderson, also said that former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell "is definitely helping us but cannot let it be known."

Mitchell, who resigned his Cabinet post to direct President Nixon's re-election campaign and who is slated to testify at the committee's hearings, has denied the charges.

ASU Employees Pledge $70,000

This issue of Hope Star contains the first of the "HONOR AMERICA" features that will appear weekly for the next fifty-two weeks. Each week the messages will be emphasized with eye-catching pictures and art work.

The central theme of the series will be what is right with America and that over the past two hundred years we have built a pretty fair country in which to live and raise our families. It will, at times, point out that there are some things wrong and these should be changed. The changes, however, should not be instituted by violence. In other words, it is not prudent to burn the barn just to get rid of the rats. There are those who would destroy our country without offering something better to replace it.

The following businesses are sponsoring this feature for the next fifty-two week period: Bramlett Oil Company, Climate Air Conditioning, Green's Grocery and Market, Herndon

Army Manpower Pinch

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A severe manpower pinch is preventing the Army from bringing its U.S.-based divisions back to full combat readiness, officials report.

This means that only one such division, the 82nd Airborne, is in shape to deploy on short notice in an emergency.

In effect, the readiness of divisions forming the home-based Strategic Army Force (STRAF) has not improved appreciably in the past year, despite infusion of new equipment.

Last winter, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, Army chief of staff, told Congress he was concerned about the inadequate readiness of STRAF units. Appearing recently before the same congressional committees, Westmoreland said: "I must tell you that this condition continues."

The Army chief blamed "a shortage of trained personnel and the severe reduction in strength we are undergoing."

Because of congressional budget cuts coupled with higher military pay, the Army was ordered to slash its rolls by more than 260,000 men this year. That will lower Army strength to about 860,000 men, with small additional cuts due next year. All Army divisions, except those involved in Vietnam fighting were weakened during the war years as men and material were funneled to Southeast Asia.

Now that the United States has pulled most of its ground-combat forces out of Vietnam, top priority has been assigned to overcoming shortages in technical skills and some officer ranks in the five Army divisions defending Western Europe.

The only other Army division overseas is the 2nd Infantry, stationed in South Korea.

The remaining seven Army divisions, one of them not yet formed, are assigned to the continental United States and Hawaii.

Asked about the condition of the division in the home-based force, the Army said the 82nd Airborne at FVT, Bragg, N.C., is in "a fully combat-ready status." The 82nd is the only wholly-paratrooper division left in the Army and is suited to swift movement overseas.

The Army provided no details on the other divisions, but it is known that several of them would require reinforcement, perhaps by National Guard and Reserve units, in order to be deployed in a crisis.

POWs Doubt China Trip Will Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two U.S. prisoners of war in Hanoi have been quoted as saying they have little hope that President Nixon's eight-point peace plan and China trip will lead to their release.

Nor do they believe that Nixon's steps are likely to bring peace.

The statements were attributed to Navy Lt. Cmdr. David Wesley Hoffman of San Diego and Cmdr. Walter Eugene Wilber of Columbia Crossroads, Pa.

Dr. George Wald, a Nobel Prize-winning biologist, said the officers expressed those views in a tape-recorded interview with him last Feb. 19 during his visit to Hanoi.

"Of course, a presidential visit to Peking doesn't look like it's any way to stop the war," Wilber said in the interview. "It looks like a spectacular move to increase his prestige for the American people, for the presidential election."

Wald asked Wilber if he knew of Nixon's latest peace proposal.

"Yes, I've heard about that," replied Wilber, a prisoner since 1968. "Here again the wording in the eight-point program doesn't look sincere to me. It looks like it misses the point—to end the war is not in there."

Hoffman, who was shot down last Dec. 30, said of the Nixon plan: "I don't have the full details of all the points. The proposal is on the surface pretty good, but when does this 'agreement' start and when does the withdrawal begin?"

Wald answered that Nixon's plan calls for withdrawal to be complete six months after an agreement is reached but he said that completing the agreement "could take years."

"I don't see how," injected Hoffman. "I'm sorry to interrupt—how could it take years because I frankly don't see how Mr. Nixon can be re-elected unless something is done . . ."

To Wald's statement that agreement could take years, Wilber replied:

"And that's the part which from a prisoner's point looks depressing. However, we realize there is progress being made, that there is more pressure being put on through the Congress and various things."

Hoffman added, "I think the biggest thing that our attention is centered on is the political campaign that is coming up."

Many Seeking Jobs at Zoo

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Some 172 persons, many of them college graduates, applied at City Hall this week for three zoo attendant positions.

Thomas F. Lewinsohn, city personnel director, said that although only a sixth grade education is required for the three jobs, the high level of unemployment here stimulated responses from applicants holding college diplomas, including some with master's degrees.

17 Die In Airliner Accident

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — An airliner making an instrument approach to Albany Airport with a capacity load of 45 passengers fell into a residential neighborhood and crashed through a two-story home.

Authorities said 17 persons were killed Friday night, including one resident of the house, but the homeowner, building contractor Joseph Rosen, 43, his wife Marcia, 35, and their young sons Lawrence and Roger escaped serious injury. They were hurled out of the house.

The pilot and copilot of the Mohawk Airlines turboprop, a two-engine Fairchild F27, were among those who died. The third member of the crew, stewardess Sandy Segir, was one of the 33 persons admitted to hospitals. Mrs. Rosen and her sons also were admitted.

Also killed was Peter Sargent, who lived with his wife in an apartment on the second floor of the Rosen home. The raised-ranch house sat along a tree-lined street in a middle-class neighborhood.

"It was fortunate that there was no fire and that people were being carried away alive," said Thomas O'Leary, a Mohawk vice president who lives near the Rosens.

The site is about two miles from central Albany and near Washington Avenue, a major thoroughfare; a state office building complex and three hospitals.

The impact pushed the house 15 to 20 feet off its foundation. The first floor was shattered and the second collapsed on the fuselage. The cockpit came to rest in the backyard and the tail jutted from the front door.

The plane had shut off one of its engines as it was making the instrument approach through a light snow and overcast, a spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration at the airport said.

The National Transportation Safety Board sent an 11-man investigating team which arrived within hours. Most of the passengers were businessmen returning from New York City. A Mohawk spokesman said Flight 405 from La Guardia Airport to Albany County Airport was sold out, as usual for a Friday night.

The airline said the 45 passengers included an infant not listed at first on the manifest. The pilot was identified as Capt. Robert McAdams, 44, of South Hempstead, N.Y., and the copilot as William E. Matthews, 38, of Orange, N.J.

The FAA spokesman said that when the plane was about five miles from the airport at an altitude of about 1,500 feet, "the pilot advised the controller that he was feathering his No. 1 engine. That happened at 8:47 p.m. At 8:48 p.m. he disappeared from the radar screen and we lost radio and radar contact with him."

Even Police Doing It

CHEBOYGAN, Mich. (AP) — Snowmobiling on city streets is against Michigan law, but even the state police were doing it here after 12 inches of snow blanketed Cheboygan.

Winds of 50 miles per hour swept up six-foot drifts Thursday.

"Every car in the city is either home in a garage or stranded somewhere in a snowdrift," said a state trooper, "and that includes every car on the force."

The city's volunteer fire department had to take to snowmobiles to water down a blazing truck.

See X-Movie, Suspended

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — City Police Supt. Robert Colville has ordered five-day suspensions for four officers who allegedly attended an X-rated movie last weekend at a suburban drive-in.

Questions, Answers About SS

By GLENDA ROZEMAN

Social Security Administration
P.O. Box 1319
Texarkana, Texas

Q. Just what is an annual report?

A. This is a report which many of our beneficiaries must complete and send to the social security office. This report is designed to inform us of a beneficiary's earned income for the most recent year and also to advise us of what he expects to earn in the current year. In addition there are questions on specific earnings for each month.

Q. Who has to prepare an annual report of earnings?

A. Any person who has been paid some monthly payments during the year and whose earnings exceeded $1680 must make this report. The only exception would be for persons disabled or those over age 72.

Q. What is the date the annual report of earnings is due?

A. This report must be completed and mailed to the social security office on or before the 15th day of April. Be sure the report is signed.

Q. Is there a penalty for late filing of annual reports?

A. Yes. Reports which are late, or not made may subject the reporter to a penalty. This penalty can be loss of one month's payment-subsequent omissions of the same type could result in a larger penalty.

Q. What does the term "earned income" mean for social security purposes?

A. Earned income is generally

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Far ahead of the return of the first robin, spring appears on television as winter time friends depart—singly and in groups—for TV's longest vacation period. Rerun time is upon us again.

"Mission: Impossible" was the first to go—last Saturday—followed on Monday by "Here's Lucy." It will be repeat shows, as usual, until September unless CBS decides, as it frequently does, to fill a few weeks of the Lucy spot with a show named "Comedy Playhouse" consisting of resurrected half hour comedy pilots that died in infancy.

"Mystery Movie" and "Night Gallery" on NBC and "The Courtship of Eddie's Father" on ABC closed shop Wednesday night.

On Thursday, ABC's entire prime time lineup packed up and left. NBC's "Ironside," originally scheduled to draw the seasonal curtain, had its run extended a week because a scheduled program was preempted by coverage of President Nixon's China visit.

Over the coming weekend, the departing shows include "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and "The New Dick Van Dyke Show" on CBS, and NBC's "The Bold Ones" on Sunday will wind up its short season by showing a pilot program for a series about a pediatrician starring Jane Wyman.

Departures will snowball after that and, almost without exception, reruns will dominate the schedules for the next six months.

Repeat programs are not matters of concern to the casual viewers of television—what does it matter whether a show is a repeat if one has not seen it before? But for the hard-core viewers, and the fans of certain programs, it is a great, long drag. Somehow, it isn't much fun to take a second look at a "Mission: Impossible" episode when all the suspense has evaporated. The alternative for the viewers is either the second half of an old feature movie on NBC or an ABC experiment in drama involving extrasensory perception.

Lucille Ball fans are in an even worse bind: old theatrical movie repeats on both NBC and ABC.

Bob Hope will be missing from his usual lectern during this year's Oscar awards show on NBC April 10. It is a simple matter of sponsor conflicts: Hope's specials are partially sponsored by one automobile company and the movie awards show will be partly sponsored by a rival.

Three-count 'em—three stars have been signed to substitute for Hope: Jack Lemmon, Sammy Davis Jr. and Alan King.

wages or self-employment income for the year in question. Income from interest, rent, or retirement benefits, and sale of real or personal property are not applicable.

Q. Since I file an income tax return why do I have to file an annual report with social security?

A. There are a number of reasons for this. First: not all persons who need to give us this report need to make tax returns. Second: your IRS return does not provide the monthly date we need; and, Third: you do not have to estimate your income for the current year on your tax return.

Q. Will I be notified if I need to make an annual report to social security?

A. Not always. In the majority of cases our payment centers will have cause to believe a report is due and will notify you. Every year starting in January up to April each social security office has newspaper articles and radio or TV presentations advising beneficiaries of the necessity of making a report. If anyone has a question, a telephone call or visit to the nearest social security office will determine if that person needs to take further action.

Odd Pieces Add Up To Something Special

Still scratching your head and trying to figure out what to do with an oddity picked up at a barn auction? Two New York City antique dealers faced the same dilemma with unusual items. Their solutions helped decorate a second home, a Flemington, N.J., farmhouse.

As a start, wall-to-wall carpeting of tufted Acrilan in lime (Monarch) providing a cohesive and warming element to the living room (left). Upholstery and draperies are in deep blues and black and white.

One of their creations of separate "junk" pieces is a watchmaker's cabinet behind a country French throne chair. The cabinet rests on some Victorian iron fencing welded to form a cage for a ceramic tiger. Next to it is an armillary, once used to tell sun time. The armillary globe was made of barrel hoops glued together and the arrow is a dowel with tin cutouts.

The tall clock by the window was made from a porch column with a fake pendulum below a working inexpensive chrome kitchen clock.

A cheerful dining area is created in a New Jersey farmhouse kitchen with odds-and-ends they picked up while buying for a New York antique store. Color is set by a leaf-like printed nylon carpet. A room divider is made of pieces of refinished banister railing placed on top of each other. Victorian doll house got a fresh coat of paint and is a doghouse for a miniature chihuahua. Color comes in the window via stained glass from a 19th-century church. The solid oak table is surrounded by reproductions of Thonet bentwood chairs and spongware pieces are copies from the 1800s.

We will let Culbertson wind up the "Battle Royal" in his own words. "I groaned inwardly when South opened that horrible two bid and wondered if I dared impose the maximum fine.

"The rest of the bidding was normal. West opened the king of hearts and instead of making the killing shift to a trump continued with the ace and another heart.

"Now she's going to make this horrible contract, I reflected bitterly, but dummy came through. He took his nine of trumps, remarked, 'Here's where dummy takes a trick,' and tossed the nine in the center of the table. East plunked on the jack.

"Now she's down, I reflected, but East made the frightful play of a low diamond away from the ace and there really was no way for South to lose another trick. Game and rubber.

"A genuine grand finale. I fined South $10 for the two bid, West $5 for bad defense, North $10 for chucking a trick as dummy and East $10 for about as bad a play as I have even seen."

The Generation Rap

"Irate Elder" Is Blasted

DEAR ALL:

"Irate Elder" wins the aluminum pincushion this month as our readers' most disliked contributor to GENERATION RAP. His blast on "boozing, drug-taking, rioting, shiftless, etc., etc." modern youth brought hundred of brickbats and not one bouquet.

Samples:

DEAR RAP:

My congratulations to the two of you for putting "Irate Elder" in his place.

For a minute I thought my husband was the writer, but I know he couldn't drag himself away from his martinis long enough. He once remarked that all teenagers should be whipped within an inch of their lives at least once a week.

These two "Irate Elders" forget they were once kids, and when they wanted to show girls the difference between the sexes they did so in barns, meadows and especially cornfields, and then blackmailed "Rosie" into "not tellin'" or "you'll git it from yur pa." Rosie was sent to Aunt Abigail's, to be put into a room until the baby arrived, said child to be put on the doorstep of a founding home, unnamed. Look back into history, Messrs. I.E., and you'll find that's why Auntie never wed—she wasn't a virgin, therefore unfit.

About drugs, I.E., remember when Paw made his own corn likker, and you kids tested and liked it?

As for rioting, how about the strikes back in our time, when our generation wanted better working conditions? The strikers were hated by the "good people," whose children benefited from the stronger labor laws they fought for.

And how about the hunger marches on our Capitol? I participated in one of them and had a piece of bologna, green with mold, thrown at me. It was then the riot started, and I was saved by a soldier (who incidentally in those days was known as "the scum of the earth") or I would have been hit by a "good citizen."

Mr. I.E., our teens today have enough gumption not to believe what is no longer true, or take the guff handed out by people like you, and I say hurrah for them. —AN ADMIRING ELDER

TO IRATE ELDER:

I had to laugh when I read your letter complaining about today's young people. It wasn't they who overpopulated our world to the point of starvation. It wasn't the youth who got us into another war. It wasn't the kids who polluted our air with smog and our water with trash.

True, many young are throwing their lives away by taking drugs, but think of the courage it takes for those who aren't, to live in this messed-up world and find beauty and goodness in it.

You might think one of the younger generation was writing this letter, so just sign me—OVER 65.

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I wish that every "Irate Elder" could attend classes with me at our local community college. A grandmother several times over, I enrolled as a freshman last September. Most of the students are 18 and 19.

The boys are bearded; boys and girls alike have long hair and wear colorful garb. But these teens are courteous, considerate, helpful, friendly, and have gone out of their way to make me feel welcome in their classrooms. They're youths of whom any parent or grandparent can be proud.

It's unfortunate that so much publicity is given to the minority when the majority are fine young people. I know! —ELDER BUT NOT IRATE

DEAR BOTH OF YOU:

The Irate Elders of this world get an idea, then set out to prove it by reading only the bad things about youth. Pity! —IRATE YOUTH

BAKED CARROTS

None of the carrot flavor is lost.

4 cups coarsely grated pared carrots, not packed down (9 or 10 medium)

2 teaspoons sugar

1 teaspoon salt

1/8 teaspoon white pepper

1/4 cup butter

Into a round glass 1-quart casserole (6 1/2 by 2 1/2 inches) or similar utensil turn the carrots. Sprinkle with sugar, salt and pepper; mix well. Dot with butter. Cover. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until tender-crisp—about 30 minutes. Mix well. Makes 6 servings.

UNCLE SAM

Get Behind This Man...

Uncle, My Uncle - Uncle Sam as a personification of the United States was born during the War of 1812. Perhaps he came into being because he was needed to symbolize the greater maturity of the still young, but rapidly growing nation. He derived from an actual person, a man who lived through those troublous times, meat packer Samuel Wilson of Troy, New York.

Uncle Sam remained a largely oral tradition, with occasional references in print, until the era of the Civil War. During that period, political cartoons were becoming popular and cartoonists began drawing him as an Abraham Lincoln type.

Uncle Sam is above all a human being. Freedom is his philosophy, and all the wordy dialecticians of the left and right will never sway him from this, the central core of his being.

As the living symbol of individual freedom, Uncle Sam demonstrates an adaptability and a fertility of resource which augur well for him and his principles in the space age. Let's get behind this man!

Spec. 4 Bagnell prays in his Vietnam barracks room before evening meal. In Buddhist tradition he shaves head and eyebrows every new and full moon.

On duty as aircraft approach controller at Can Tho airstrip, Bagnell sits at radar screen. He takes pride in his work and is described as an outstanding soldier.

Spec. 4 Bruce Bagnell goes from duty as an aircraft approach controller at Can Tho airstrip, South Vietnam, to spend his spare time in a Buddhist pagoda, teaching the monks and studying their ways. And the enlisted man from Syracuse, N.Y., says "More and more the pagoda is becoming my real home."

He cannot actually become a monk himself at this time because of the differing demands of Army and Buddhist life. But he has worked out ways of satisfying both traditions. As a serviceman he takes pride in his work and is described as an outstanding soldier. In off-duty hours he lives and eats with the monks of the small, nearby pagoda. In return for his tutoring they help him with his studies of the Cambodian language and Buddhist philosophy. He goes to the pagoda now instead of to bars. He's given up smoking grass. He says he doesn't miss much of his old life—except his wife, Sherry, whom he married two weeks before going out to Vietnam.

Photographs by Rick Merron.

G I from Syracuse, N.Y., teaches English to Buddhist monks and is helped in return with his own studies of Buddhist philosophy.

Bagnell reads a letter from home in the barracks room where he burns incense and prepares his own meals of rice, fish and fruit.

WORLD OF WORK

J. U., Boston, Mass., writes: I want you to know that women are not the only victims of wage discrimination. I am a man who makes less than women, although our jobs are the same. Does the equal pay law protect me?

Dear J. U.: The Equal Pay Act covers workers in establishments subject to the federal minimum wage law, and applies equally to men as well as women. Although women are primary victims of equal pay violations, the Wage and Hour Division has found some instances where men were underpaid. Those cases most often involved state laws which required the payment of overtime on a daily basis to women but not men. Where applicable, the federal law pre-empts such state laws.

L. F., Roanoke, Va., asks: If the federal minimum wage is $1.00 an hour, why are waitresses in a nearby restaurant receiving only $1.00 an hour?

Dear L. F.: Restaurants, cafeterias, and similar eating places with sales of less than $250,000 a year are not required to pay the federal minimum wage. There is an exemption provision in the law for such establishments and other small retail stores. Restaurants grossing $250,000 or more annually (exclusive of certain taxes) must pay their nonexempt employees at least $1.60 per hour. Tips retained by an employee who regularly receives more than $20 a month in tips may be used to satisfy up to half the minimum wage, if the tips amount to that much. The rest of the minimum wage must be paid in cash or such items as meals and lodging.

J. H., Boonville, Mo., asks: How do the federal minimum wage and overtime laws apply to farm workers?

Dear J. H.: At least $1.30 an hour must be paid to workers employed in agriculture by an employer who used more than 500 man-days of farm labor in any calendar quarter of the preceding calendar year. Five hundred man-days is approximately the equivalent of seven employees employed full-time in a calendar quar-

PERSONAL FINANCE

By CARLTON SMITH

Much of the traditional thinking about retirement funds and retirement income is all wrong, according to pundits in the behavioral sciences who've been taking an interest in the subject lately.

Specifically, they've made a plausible case against the hallowed notion that you hang onto all the capital you can, through the retirement years, so that when it's all over you can leave the children a nice inheritance.

A number of psychologists believe that even when the expected inheritance is modest, the situation makes for unwholesome family relationships. Subconsciously, the heirs may be waiting for and wishing for the old folks to die, so the will can be read and the loot passed around.

Other experts in the sociology of aging maintain that the traditional emphasis on conserving capital casts its pall on the life style of the retirees, who may feel it's "wrong" to spend for their own pleasure and enjoyment. Retirees thus tend to lead restricted and inactive lives, they observe, even when some of the foregone pleasures of life are financially feasible.

Finally, there's the argument that the expectation of an inheritance may be no favor to the heirs themselves. Students of the psychology of success, or the personal history of the achiever, tend to support this view. The individual who's motivated to make it solely on his own, they say, usually has a stronger drive than one who can anticipate a financial cushion later in life, even a fairly modest one.

The traditional rule that you "never invade principal" is partly rooted in the economics of an earlier era, when support in retirement years was dependent entirely on the individual's resources, or the family. Today, with basic necessities covered by Social Security and Medicare, experts in the economics of family life point out, it's feasible to program a gradual spending of a portion of retirement funds.

After the age 65 or 70, it's suggested, a sizable part of the capital accumulated for retirement can be allocated for periodic liquidation, on a time schedule geared to life expectancy. Instead of living on as little as possible, the idea is to live as well as possible, in the time remaining.

All these new thoughts on the economics of retirement shouldn't be filed away until you've reached senior citizen status. To the extent that they make sense to anyone, they'll influence the kind of assets aimed at in planning for the accumulation of retirement funds.

If you think you're going to want optimum liquidity at some future date, that will, or should, influence the decisions you make as you go along about what you're building up. Whether you can spend it, eventually, will depend to a considerable extent on the mix your earnings have produced—equities, a pension plan, real estate, annuities, your own little antique shop, or whatever.

HERBERT SCHOLARSHIP NEW YORK (AP) — The Victor Herbert Foundation Inc. has announced a gift of $15,000 to the Juilliard School for the establishment of a Victor Herbert Scholarship. The announcement was made by the composer's daughter and only survivor, Mrs. Robert S. Bartlett of New York. Herbert was born in Dublin, Feb. 1, 1859, and died in New York City on May 26, 1924.

Charges Blacks Not Impressed With Compromised Baseball Oddsmakers

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — "Most black athletes are so naive that they can be compromised by a steak dinner and a glass of champagne," a former pro line-backer turned actor charged today.

"Scouts, agents, coaches and team owners exploit blacks. It's a fact that some super-star blacks earn less money than mediocre whites."

The accusation was made by Bill Overton, 25, a Wake Forest graduate who was line-backer with the Dallas Cowboys and later the Kansas City Chiefs, although not a regular, before moving on to a successful career in the movies and on television.

With two active players—Mike Garrett of the San Diego Chargers and Bob Grant of the Washington Redskins—the handsome, 6-foot-2 Negro has formed an organization called Midlothian Industries, with headquarters in Los Angeles, for the purpose of counselling athletes in their business dealings and economics.

"We don't confine ourselves with blacks—we will take whites, too," Overton said in an interview. "It just happens that, because of their disadvantaged family life, blacks are the most susceptible."

"I don't like to refer to myself as a manager or an agent. I'm a god-father."

Overton insists that the enterprise is more philanthropic than commercial since so far the clients haven't paid a penny into the project. Besides, Overton doesn't need it for a livelihood.

He has had parts in four movies, "Made for Each Other," "Hail," "Mortadella" (with Sophia Loren) and "Richard" (a takeoff on the President); appeared on television and on the stage ("Bill and William" at Playboy Theater in ATLANTA (AP) — Manager Luman Harris of the Atlanta Braves isn't impressed with the major league baseball oddsmakers who tabbed his team at only 6-1 in the National League West race.

"I think there are five good teams in the division and I think any one of them could win," Harris said. "All they (Braves) have to do is look at the talent on the team and they'll know we can win."

"This should be the best hitting Braves club ever and potentially the best hitting club in baseball," he added.

"We have the strongest and deepest personnel of any Braves team I've managed," Harris said.

Atlanta's success depends primarily on the knees of Hammerin' Hank Aaron, Orlando Cepeda and Rico Carty, a trio of super sluggers who have combined for almost 1,100 home

New York) and has done numerous commercials.

"When Hank Stram (Kansas City coach) offered to pay me $150 a game to stay on the taxi squad," Overton said, "I decided football wasn't for me."

Overton grew up in a ghetto in Boston, began making decisions at the age of nine because both his parents worked, and won a scholarship to Wake Forest, where he majored in football and drama. He was graduated in 1968.

"I was really naive," he said. "The guys once took me to a Ku Klux Klan cross burning in Greensboro (N.C.). I was one of the first black guys to play at Auburn in 1967. The trainer didn't want to sit with me on the bus because he was afraid he'd get shot."

"That's not what bugs me. What bugs me is that black athletes are being victimized by sharp agents and promoters—sometimes by their own coaches. We want to help them."

Overton said he had discovered that in many cases college coaches made secret deals with the agents and the agents, in turn, made secret deals with the pro teams with the athlete usually the loser.

"Even if you majored in economics, it would be hard for you to digest all of the small print in some of these contracts," he added.

"So what happens? Some smart operator takes a guy out to a fancy dinner, soft-soaps his family and slips the guy $100. Then he has him in his pocket. The guy will sign without looking at the contract. This is where we are trying to help."

Overton said he knew of a case involving a high draft choice in pro basketball who signed what he thought was a $500,000 contract only to discover he got about one-fifth that amount.

"In the last pro basketball draft, sixteen of the top 20 were blacks," he added.

runs during their careers.

Aaron, who Tuesday probably became the game's highest paid player when he signed a three-year contract for an estimated $200,000 per year, enters his 19th season only 75 homers away from Babe Ruth's lifetime record of 714.

His nagging knee problem forced him to the sideline more last season than in previous years. Despite this, he hit a career high 47 round trippers.

Carty, the 1970 National League batting champion, missed the entire 1971 campaign after breaking his left leg near the knee in a winter league collision. A pin was removed from the leg last November.

Cepeda limped through 71 games with the Braves last year before receiving permission to undergo surgery on his left knee last August.

Braves officials are taking a look at Carty and Cepeda in spring drills at West Palm Beach, Fla., before offering them 1972 contracts.

Another Brave who strikes fear in opposing pitchers is catcher Earl Williams, last year's NL Rookie of the Year after belting 33 home runs and driving in 87 runs.

Speedster Ralph Garr, who hit .343 and swiped 30 bases in his first full season in the majors, and steady second baseman Felix Millan, who batted .289 despite circulation problems in his right index finger, should give the sluggers plenty of RBI opportunities.

However, it may take the best hitting club in baseball to make contenders of the Braves. Team speed is average, at best, and the pitching staff has a history of inconsistency and lacks a proven stopper.

The starters probably will be knuckleballer Phil Niekro, who won 23 in leading Atlanta to the division crown in 1969; former Notre Dame basketball star Ron Reed; Pat Jarvis, who won only six games last year; and southpaw George Stone and Mike McQueen, who underwent elbow surgery last fall.

Harris says his 1972 squad "gives me the most pleasant feeling I've ever had as manager while the frost is still on the ground."

When the frost returns next October, he'll probably find his Braves no better than third or fourth in the division.

Blind Skier Wears Sign

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Every Saturday David Swinney travels 80 miles into the Sierra Nevada mountains for a day of skiing. He wears two special pieces of equipment: a crash helmet and a big red sign saying "Blind Skier."

The 20-year-old Sacramento college student aims his skis according to directions shouted by a friend: "90 degrees left, 45 degrees right, now ride her out."

"That bright sign helps a lot," Swinney said in an interview. "People get out of the way. And if I do hit them, they don't get mad."

Swinney's ski group, organized by the San Juan Unified School District here, took its first blind pupil to the slopes five years ago.

This year about 20 blind persons and about 20 deaf persons are participating in the program, along with 1,500 other youths.

Swinney took his first lesson in 1968. After mastering the snowplow turn and advancing into the stem turn, he is now trying to sell skiing to others who are blind.

A teacher once tried to dissuade Swinney because skiing involves body movements difficult for blind persons to imitate.

"I thought it would be much harder," said the youth. "Now, when I'm going good, I really don't worry about a thing. I just follow the instructions of my buddy or teacher, who skis behind, in front or alongside."

"Sometimes I get going too fast and out of control. I prefer to fall down than to take chances."

Swinney's instructor, Joe Hayes, a 35-year-old Sacramento school principal, said he tried skiing while blindfolded, just to learn of the problems involved.

"Funny thing, I couldn't tell if I was moving or standing still—unless I dragged my poles," said Hayes.

"David is our best handicapped skier. But do you know, one day there were some amputees taking lessons at Boreal Ridge and we told David about them."

"David thought a minute, and said 'Hey man, I don't see how anyone with only one leg could ever learn how to ski. That must take real courage.'"

Stamps in Class A Playoffs

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Stephens faces Stamps for the second straight year tonight in the finals of the Class A senior boys state basketball tournament in Little Rock.

In semifinal action Friday night Stephens defeated Charleston 69-65 and Stamps whipped Monette 59-52.

Jimmy Jenkins sank five of six free throws in the last 1:04 of the game to preserve the victory for defending champion Stephens.

Charleston led 32-31 at the half, but Ralph Porchia led a third-quarter Stephens surge with 13 points in the period to give the Roadrunners a 55-51 margin at the end of three quarters.

Porchia was Stephens' leading scorer with 24 and Jenkins had 17. Ralph Eckle had 25 for Charleston.

Stamps took a 12-8 first quarter lead and never trailed Monette.

Stamps held a 28-22 halftime lead, but Monette pulled to within one or two points several times during the remainder of the game.

Darrell Bridges led all scorers with 18 points for Monette and Dale Jacobs paced Stamps with 15.

Class B

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Menifee and Mayflower meet tonight in Little Rock to decide the Class B senior boys state basketball championship.

In Friday night's semifinal games, Mayflower drubbed Prattville 80-65 and Menifee upset Vaster 77-62.

Mayflower took a first-quarter lead and never relinquished it, ending Prattville's winning streak at 40.

Theardis Stubbs gunned in 22 points to guide the way to victory and Bobby Acklin put in 20.

Ronnie Harris paced Prattville with 21 points.

Menifee jumped on Vaster for a 20-11 first period lead and expanded that to a 41-27 halftime lead in defeating Vaster. Menifee led by as much as 22 points in the second half.

Ronald Williams had 18 and Raymond Heagans 16 for Menifee and Samuel Biley had 33 for Vaster to lead all scorers. Homer Jackson added 10 for the losers.

Rice Will Defend Title

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Defending champion Rice with classy pole vaulter Dave Roberts and hurdles sensation Mike Cronholm is expected to get a strong challenge from Texas in the 40th annual Border Olympics which begins a two-day run today.

Preliminaries in the lesser divisions get underway today with the university and college fields displaying their talents Saturday in this first major outdoor track and field meet of the season.

What it amounts to is an early peek at the strength in the Southwest Conference because each school in the league has entered the competition except Arkansas.

Rice surprised Texas A&M in this cactus-and-sun outdoor carnival last year and the Owls stayed right in the groove to win the SWC title several months later.

Roberts is the defending NCAA king who had a season best of 17-feet 6½ inches last season. He was involved in one of the wildest mixups in track and field history at this Shrey Field meet last March.

The Coroe, Tex., native left for Houston with the trophy as the outstanding performer thinking he had won it. Actually, there had been a mixup in information relayed to the press box. Roberts won his event with a 16-7 vault, but officials announced he had cleared 17 feet. Roberts was voted the trophy by the writers covering the meet.

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) —

Bob Light, basketball coach for 15 years at Appalachian State University in Boone, N.C., announced his resignation after the Mountaineers lost to Davidson 87-77 in the opening round of the Southern Conference tournament Thursday night.

Light, 44, said the resignation is effective immediately, and that he planned to continue teaching in the Department of Health and Physical Education at Appalachian State.

Phillies Thinking More of Future Than of 1972

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) —

The Philadelphia Phillies haven't given up on 1972, but club officials are thinking more in terms of 1973, 74, 75, and in-finitum.

John Quinn drew the line on club policy when the general manager of the last place Phillies walked into the winter baseball trade mart and stunned some people by saying he had six untouchables.

Untouchables on a club that finished last in the National League East behind expansion Montreal?

That's the Phillies' story. Quinn and his Manager Frank Lucchesi are dedicated to building a contender from the ranks of the club's farm system. The nucleus is Greg Luzinski, a muscular 21-year-old who hits baseballs out of sight; Mike Anderson, 20, who hit .334 and 36 home runs in the Pacific Coast League last season; Larry Bowa, 26, a record-setting fielder at shortstop in 1971; Don Money, 25, a third baseman many clubs tried to get in a trade; Willie Montanez, 23, runner-up as 1971 rookie of the year, and 27-year-old Steve Carlton, a 20-game winning pitcher with the St. Louis Cardinals last season.

Luzinski, Anderson and Montanez are the starting outfield, probably the youngest in baseball.

Lucchesi says his infield is set with veteran Deron Johnson, on first, Denny Doyle and Terry Harmon platooning at second, Bowa and Money. The Phillies tried desperately to trade Johnson, who hit .265 with 34 home runs and 95 RBI, but they couldn't get the starting pitcher or second baseman they sought. Doyle and Harmon are unproven major leaguers. Bowa is one of the better shortstops in the league, while Montney has to prove whether he's the .295 hitter of 1970, or the .223 weak sister of 1971.

Lucchesi has no problems in the catching department with .278 hitter Tim McCarver and Mike Ryun, who is a fine receiver although not a strong hitter.

Pitching is Lucchesi's biggest headache. After lefty Carlton, who the Phillies acquired recently for pitcher Rick Wise, the ranks are thin. Things are so lean that Lucchesi is dipping into his bullpen and converting Dick Selma into a starter. Selma, who once started for the Mets and Cards, is coming off a year when he nursed a sore arm most of the time.

The Phillies have left-handers Woodie Fryman 10-7, Ken Reynolds 5-9, and 35-year-old Chris Short 7-14, and right-handers Barry Lersch 5-14, Billy Champion 3-5 and possibly reliever Darrell Brandon 6-6, battling for the rest of the starting jobs.

Lefty Joe Hoerner 4-5, with nine saves heads the bullpen corps. He'll get help from Billy Wilson 4-6, with seven saves after coming up from Class A ball in June. Lucchesi has hopes also for rookie Max Scarce, who has been a relief pitcher his entire baseball career.

Last season he appeared in relief 20 times in the Carolina League, winning three and losing none and compiling a 1.29 ERA.

On paper, the Phillies don't figure to do better than fifth, and last place again is a distinct possibility. Lucchesi had better hope that Quinn and the rest of the Phillies' brass are as dedicated to the future as they indicate they are, because the present appears bleak. If the Phillies aren't playing respectable, say by Memorial Day or July 4, the manager could pay the price.
